

Crain's Blogs On Dining

Chill foodie event at Merchandise Mart

November 12, 2012

The chefs from some of Chicago's most renowned restaurants are headed to the upscale kitchen and bath showrooms of the Merchandise Mart.

LuxeHome on the first floor of the Mart hosts the sixth annual CHILL event Nov. 15, where attendees will have the opportunity to sample dishes from more than 30 area restaurants, including Blackbird, Nellcôte and RL, as well as 150 international wines – all in the name of charity.

Tickets ($85) gets attendee access to peruse the first floor of the Mart, taste the many wines and try foods directly from the chefs as they prepare them.

Proceeds from the evening benefit the Respiratory Health Association, the Chicago Youth Symphony Orchestras and the Lynn Sage Foundation.

The past five CHILL events have brought in more than $450,000 for the charities, with last year topping out at $120,000.

Tickets sold out in 2011, and a spokeswoman says they're on track to do the same this year.

Follow On Dining on Twitter at @CrainsLife.